Objet : recommandation letter

To whom it may concern,

I welcomed M. Noé Boulud to my team this summer for a voluntary internship. Although he only stayed for a month, Noé demonstrated excellent integration skills, grasping and understanding of the objectives of our research projects. In collaboration with a doctoral student from the team and the support staff of the lab, he took ownership of the concepts and working hypotheses, participated in the preparation and execution of experimental tasks, as well as in the collection and processing of data. He was able to put his programming talents to the service of the team's scientific activities and actively participated in its social life. I have no doubt about Noé's success in his further studies and warmly recommend his future applications for internships and work stays in research laboratories.

Sincerely,

Alexandra Séverac Cauquil
